GOSSIP, INNUENDO, VULGARITY, BAD TASTE!

STUDENT ENQUIRER
YEAR 4 · ISSUE 25 PROVO, UTAH
APRIL 1, 1990 $8.50/ $9.50 CANADA LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER AT BYU

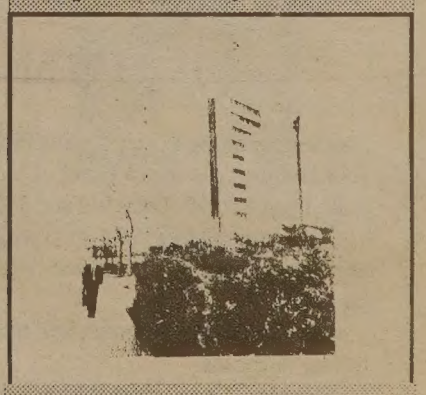
Ever wondered why Janet Lee is always in grocery stores?

JOE CANNON
MAN OF THE DECADE

Brett Blake's secret shame: evil twin Snipper

LDS Conference to be held in Cougar Stadium

More exquisite Cougarette poetry—angst and Spandex.



Standards brainwashing: beware 12th floor SWKT

Newsbriefs

Young Couple Shamed

Mr. and Mrs. Jones of Wymount Terrace were discovered not to have any children last Thursday evening.

"I'm so embarassed!" sobbed Mrs. Jones.

The couple had been babysitting various children, masquerading them as their own so the neighbors wouldn't get suspicious.

"I thought something was up when both of them looked like they got a good night's sleep every morning," remarked a neighbor.

The Wymount Terrace Neighborhood Watch obtained a search warrant from Standards and investigated the apartment Thursday evening while the couple was away.

"No cribs, no diapers, no Gerbers, nothing!" exclaimed one person.

Standards is considering an investigation.

University Police raided the Faculty Building Saturday evening and discovered a caffeine hoard.

"Coke, Pepsi, Dr. Pepper, cases of Jolt Cola—if it had caffeine, it was there," remarked one officer.

Unlike the chocolate bar incident of 1973, this crime is of major proportions.

Faculty Caffeine Hoard

"Teachers were getting wired before class," reported an inside source.

"We're innocent!" exclaimed an anonymous spokesperson for the faculty, "We were just cleaning out the local markets to protect the students."

Standards is conducting random blood tests.

Library Scarecrows

March 19: a student discovered that the door watchers in the library are only cardboard cutouts.

"They looked so stonefaced, I thought they coudn't be real," said Joe Shmoe, the curious student who went up and touched one.

"As I approached the girl, a librarian ran toward me, screaming 'Don't touch it! Don't touch it!' I did and it fell over."

"This is terrible. Now we'll have to hire real people and tuition will go up," moaned one librarian.

Sucking Too Hard

A young couple were making out near the Eyring Science Center when tragedy struck.

"I was sucking so hard that I just swallowed him whole," cried the young woman.

Luckily, a passing bicyclist noticed the floundering woman and called an ambulance after unsucessfully attempting the Heimlich Maneuver. The bicyclist, James Bram, commented, "I couldn't even get my arms around her huge, squirming stomach." The woman was rushed first to the BYU Health Center, where nurses denied her service due to delinquent insurance premiums, and then to Utah Valley Medical Center. Doctors surgically removed the man who suffered minor gastric acid burns.

This Just In

- Admissions to BYU, starting in the Fall of 1991 will require you to bear your testimony before a panel of judges who will rate your testimony on a scale from 1 to 10. Only 9's and 10's will be readmitted.
- Also in the Fall of 1991 BYU will buy Academy Square and immediately beginning using it for married housing. Renovation will begin two years later.
- On campus employment will now take 10% out of every paycheck - for tithing purposes.
- In order to encourage the women of BYU to broaden their horizons the Elementary Education department will be disbanded in 1993.
- BYU plans to have a spring break - beginning April 26th.
- Because of increased enrollment and lack of classroom space, the womens restrooms will become co-ed (men will use it even hours, women, odd) and the mens restrooms will be converted into classrooms.
- Increased enrollment will now require students to maintain a 3.75 GPA to remain at the university.

New Universe Distribution

THE DAILY UNIVERSE plans to save steps in the paper cycle through a new distribution scheme announced Monday. "Since all the papers end up in the recycling bin anyway, we thought we could save everyone the trouble," a spokesman said. Sally James, a freshman who this year has recycled an average of 15 Universes per day, was esctatic. "Now I don't have to get print all over my hands anymore!" she commented. Copies of "Calvin and Hobbes," "the Far Side," and grocery coupons will be pasted to the side of each recycling bin for those who actually used to open the paper.

Memo of the Week

FROM: Standards

TO: All Narcs, Inquisitors, Lackeys & Stormtroupers

DATE: 26 March 1990

SUBJECT: Wired subjects

Please remember to thoroughly frisk all subjects for wires, taperecorders, miniature cameras, etc. Several of our recent sessions of loving & inspired counsel have been taped, and transcripts are circulating on campus. While we will, of course, continue our clandestine taping of all counselling sessions, we can't have the students getting their hands on transcripts, as we could find ourselves in trouble because some of those pesky details in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. We encourage you in your loving ministrations.

Student Enquirer is an independent student publication dedicated to exposing the Brigham Young University campus community.

Student volunteers from all disciplines edit and manage Student Enquirer; however, opinions expressed are those of individual authors and do not necessarily reflect views of Student Review, the SR or SE staffs, BYU, UVCC, or The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Student Enquirer is published once a year, and if you don't get one that is just too bad. Available by invitation only.

We invite all students to get involved with Student Enquirer. Articles are welcome from anyone exasperated by the BYU campus and Utah County communities.

"Student Enquirer is to Student Review what the Swimsuit issue is to Sports Illustrated."

-Grant Madsen

Student Enquirer
P.O. Box 7092
Provo, Ut 84602
(801) 377-2980

Allison E. Allgaier, Anya, Yasir Arafat, John Armstrong, Nathan Augustine, Stephanie Bagwell, Tobi Barnett, Matt Banks, Barbara, John Beynon, Kim Bielema, Leigh-Ann Bingham, Daniel Billett, Eric W. Blanchard, Darren Bowman, Frank Bowman, Mike Brady, Melinda Brockett, Joanna Brooks, Alexis Browne, Kyle Burdette, Sheryl Carlin, Dave Carpenter, Eddie Carr, Violeta Chamorros, Ginny Charles, Joyce Christiansen, Rebecca Christiansen, Bruce Crandall, Karen Crockett, Julie Curtis, Jesse Curtis, Bob Davis, Jen Day, Quentin Decker, Dianna Lynn DeMars, Shane Denney, Bruce Dew, Chris Diener, Christine Dix, Takako Doi, Robert Dole, Johnathan Dorney, Brian Dupaix, Jane England, Steve Esplin, Heather Fitzgerald, Layne Flake, Brian Fogg, Natalie Ford, Carolyn Forrest, Edwin Gaskin, Mel Gibson, Stephen Gibson, Marion Ginn, Barry Goldwater, Amy Goodson, Jenni Graham, Holly Green, Laura Griffen, Jeff Hadfield, Amy Hager, Heather Hajek, Todd Hamblin, John Hamer, Paul Hammer, Ken Hofeling, Jon Holdaway, Shawn Holman, Bob Hope, Chris Hyland, Jennifer James, Michael Jordan, Sherman Langford, Ania Laver, Jim Leger, Adrian Lee, Rex Lee, David Letterman, Jeff Lines, Michelle Livsey, Scott Macy, Grant Madsen, Nelson Mandela, Craig Masters, Sharon McGovern, Larry "Bud" Melman, Ken Meyer, Kate Moore, Laura Moore, Bob Newell, Merrill E. Oates, Nathan Ogilvie, Merritt Olsen, Celia Orme, Rebecca Pack, Lorraine Patterson, Randi Paynter, Jerry Pennock, Shimon Peres, Ellen Peters, Diane Petranek, Rich Phelps, Janice Kapp Perry, Rex the Pig, Jill Place, Matthew Polder, William Powley, Paul Rawlins, Andi Reese, Brian Rhees, Alyson Rich, Cyndi Riding, Kurt Russell, J.D. Salinger, Eric Schulzke, Jill Shepherd, Bart Simpson, Andrew Smith, David Smith, Jenny Smith, Michael Smith, Bill Stacey, Marianne Stark, Darby Stokes, John Stolhton (rehabilitated), Lisa Suchesk, David Sume, Susan Syphert, Tim Tanner, Matt Taylor, Merrill Teemant, Bill Tibbets, Darren Vance, Julie VanZant, Dick Vitale, Lech Walesa, Chris Walton, Thane Walton, Wendy Whitekiend, Oprah Winfrey, Dave Wilbur, Tyler Williams, Charles Worlton, Chris Yates

West German Special Envoy • Dorothy Voght

UPB

BRETT BLAKE'S EVIL TWIN, SNIPPER, REVEALED AS CAMPUS TERRORIZER

BYUSA president Brett Blake, who earlier denied any association, admitted today that the infamous clothes-snipper, who has been terrorizing campus for weeks, is in fact his evil twin, Snipper Blake.

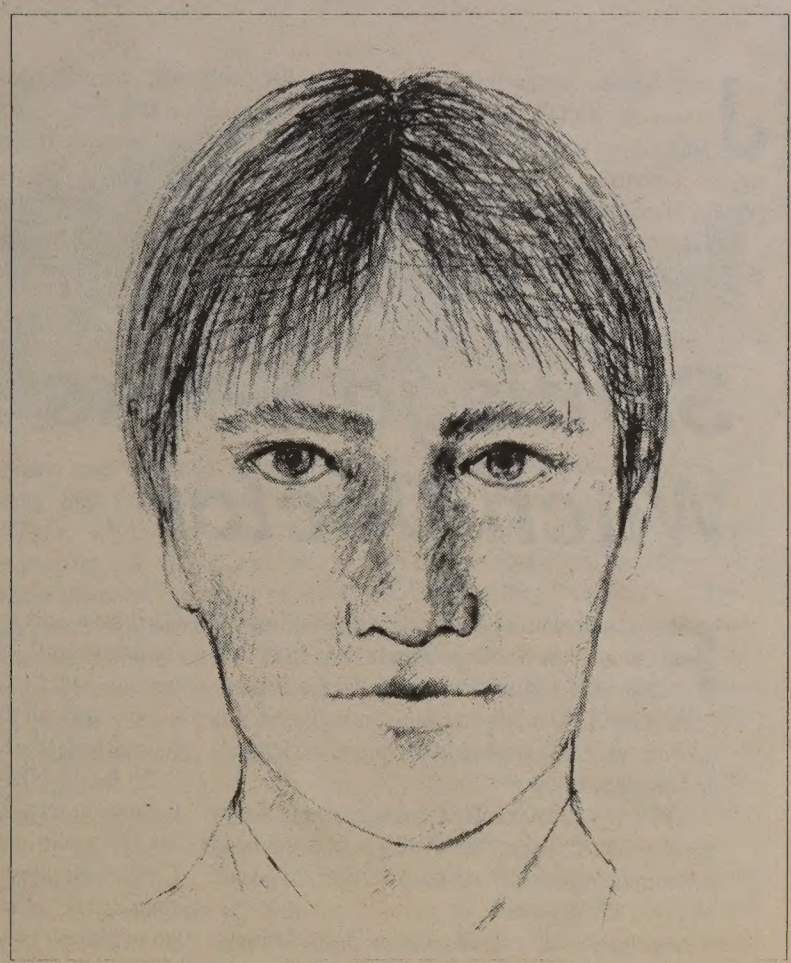
Snipper was arrested Monday in connection with the recent rash of clothing cutting assaults. He was reportedly seen in the Clyde Building fondling a piece of polyester, while holding a pair of "lefties" shortly before being brought in by police.

Two recent developments were responsible for pointing the police in Blake's direction: new witnesses and the previous sinister scissors association of his good twin, Brett.

According to police psychologist Dr. J. Lamar Romney, "Blake's first public expression of his scissors fetish was an assault on a stack of Student Reviews prior to the BYUSA elections. He has since been seen in classes making paper dolls and attending local quilting bees."

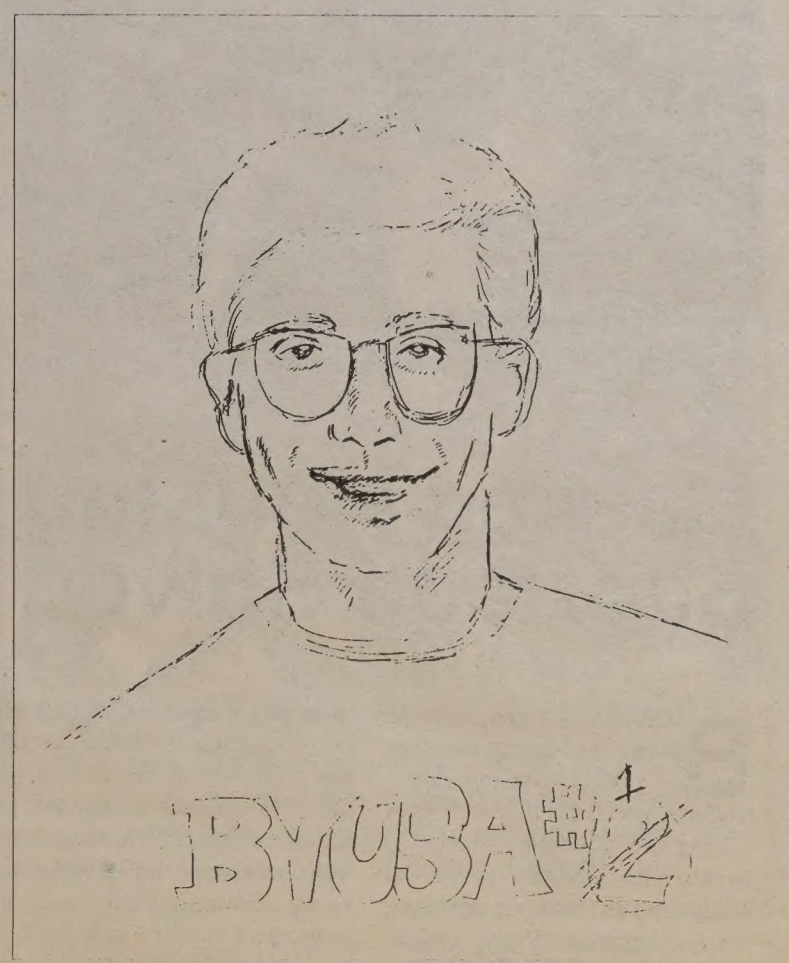
The final nail came when senior Elaine Glick reported an assault. "I was suddenly awakened by a chilly breeze, and noticed a gaping hole in my blouse. A slight, sandy-haired man wearing a yellow tie was walking briskly for the door. He looked guilty and I knew it was him. I chased him and grabbed him by the tie and gave him a stiff kidney punch, but he was feisty and kept struggling. I managed to subdue him by repeatedly banging his head on the concrete.

I thought he was that guy, you know, the president of whatchamacallit, but I guess it was his evil twin all along."



Composite sketch courtesy of BYU Police

This is a composite sketch of the scissors-armed male who was seen by victims of clothes snipping, and later identified as Snipper Blake, evil twin of Brett Blake, BYUSA President. The victims had their clothing cut as they slept in the Harold B. Lee Library.



Campaign sketch courtesy of BYUSA

This is a campaign sketch of BYUSA President Brett Blake, later identified as the good twin of Snipper Blake, the infamous clothes-snipper. Fortunately, during his successful campaign, Brett was able to restrict his genetically-based snipping tendancy to an off-campus publication.

ELECTRIC SCISSORS

Cuts paper, fabric—even leather ... by push of A Button. Limited offer. Send $9.95. NYA, Box 140730, Coral Gables, FL 33114.

What the police found inSnipper's wallet

Dave and Virginia relax in their new home located in the women's room at 229 MCKB.

Married Housing Shortage Solved

Because of a current shortage of married housing, the makers of Y-Mount International have announced that they will begin renting out the lounge areas in women's on-campus rest rooms to needy families. The idea came about when a desperate Provo couple, Dave and Virginia Hummells, started a live-in-strike in a women's bathroom in the Wilkinson Center. "It's our campus living room," said Dave. For helping create the idea, Dave and Virginia were given their choice of bathrooms to rent.

The man in charge of the project, Mr. W.C. Johns, explained, "The prices of the bathrooms are being based on a recent study of the quality of on-campus bathrooms that was published in the Student Review. In addition to the rent, the families are asked to clean the toilets daily and restock the TP when necessary. Outside of the minor inconvenience of having a man living in the women's rooms, the program helps everyone."

Curtains will be available for a small fee, providing a modicum of privacy for women who still need to use the restroom. Some couples are already planning to earn extra cash by charging for restroom use, as is the practice in Europe.

Former BYUSA President to Join the Hulkster

Just weeks after stepping down as BYUSA president, Jeff Singer is reported to have signed a contract with the WWF (World Wrestling Federation).

Many sports analysts predict a short-lived career for Singer due to credibility problems. Professional wrestlers, however, disagree.

When asked to comment on Singer's future as a wrestler, Rowdy Roddy Piper said, "The Singer's got charisma, and it made students think he was really a competent student government officer. His charisma should fool the public into thinking he's a good wrestler as well. The Singer is just one big mass of ambition."

Singer was unavailable for comment on his wrestling future.

Santiago Seeks Witch Doctor

Feeling that his basketball career was all but over, Kevin Santiago sought help from Ben Johnson's witch doctor in the Caribbean. Following BYU's loss to Clemson in the NCAA tournament, Santiago boarded a plane in Hartford and headed south.

"He's a legitimate first rounder now," says agent Frank Layden, "he's always had the head and the desire, but now he's got the body to go one on one with anyone."

After only a week on this miracle drug, Santiago is bench pressing 400 pounds, has a 44" vertical leap, and runs a 4.3 40. "I feel better than ever," says the 25 year old Provo native, "I just wish I would have thought of this earlier."

Lionel Ritchie, himself a native of the Caribbean and a close friend of Santiago's doctor is footing the bill. "It's the least I could do," said Ritchie, now an Elder's Quorum President in the Studio City ward, "after all the members of the Church have done for me, I felt like I would like to do something in return."

So far 15 NBA teams have contacted Kevin at his Caribbean retreat. The strongest push has come from the 76ers who have been searching for someone to spell Charles Barkley and take his place when he retires. "We're very interested in Kevin, he could become our go to player," says Sixer coach Jim Lynam.

With all this publicity you might think that Santiago would let it go to his head. Not so. Kevin plans on donating half his salary each year to fight drug abuse in Utah county.

SR SCOREBOARD

by Dave Carpenter and Andrew Smith

FINAL FOUR

OK, so Xavier burned us, and Loyola couldn't shoot 80% all tournament, BUT still, your trusty picksters scored on 9 of 12 picks last week, while the favorites (the seedings from the silly NCAA) only managed to get 7 out of the 12. Not bad, eh? This means, of course, that you can trust us to guide you through the final four with at least perfect unflinching accuracy. On we go.

YOUR GUIDE TO THE FINAL FOUR TEAMS

The Charlotte Hornets- Intimidated by their NBA schedule, Charlotte peeled off their pinstripes, shaved their faces and swept through the first four rounds, beating such powerhouses as Coppin State, Brown, and Timpview (Utah). Their strengths include a cool sounding nickname, zillions of screaming fans and ten first round NBA draft picks.

Emery-Castle Dale High- With senior Shawn Bradley, it's no wonder they've made it this far. After all, isn't every Cougar fan expecting Shawn to take Roger Reid and Co. there next year? Strengths: Anonymity, Mom's home cooking, and Shawn. Weaknesses: Are there any other players? Low decible cheerleaders, and persistent rumors that Bradley is actually only 5'7", not the reported 7'5".

Air Force- Scared their way into the Final Four with their intimidating moniker. They sport a revitalized front line of Ethan "Teethin" Barborka, and James B. Hughs, who recently set a record with 13 straight shots from 10 feet on the Puff Hoop.

Denver Broncos- Yes, they're back, looking for a championship in any sport with a major television contract. Strengths include an enormous backcourt, rediculously loyal fans, and the fact that they've never won the big one in any sport. Weaknesses entail a penchant for illegal contact, questionable defense, and the fact that they've never won the big one in any sport.

THE PICKS

Game 1: Emery- Castle Dale over Charlotte. The Hornets just don't have the dominating presence in the middle. Gilliam against Bradley? Shawn under-weighs him by 200 pounds, but don't let that fool you. Remember Manute Bol.

Game 2: Denver pounds Air Force into submission. Despite Nerf prowess, Hughs flubs a free throw with :02 on the clock to lose by 34.

Championship Game: Well, Castle Dale beats the Broncos, as Forward Joey Montana pumps in a record 86 pts. on 31 of 33 shooting with 24 three-pointers and no free throws, since Denver couldn't touch him. Broncos point guard J. J. Elway said "They outplayed us." The Broncos vow to return next year. After the game, center Shawn Bradley decided to skip college all together, and go straight to the NBA. Said Bradley, "Why should I waste time in college with those midgets? Plenty of quality players have made the jump. Just look at Darryl Dawkins."

TYSON/DOUGLAS REMATCH

The rematch of Michael Tyson and James "Buster" Douglas will be held next Tuesday at 11:00 as a Forum Assembly in place of the regularly scheduled guest. Tickets $3.00, $2.00 with current student ID. Promoters Don King and Donald Trump will be in the ELWC stepdown lounge after the match to greet students and answer relevent questions. Come early and reserve a seat with your backpack for your roommates.

NBA SITTINGS

EASTERN CONFERENCE

Atlantic	W	L	PCT	GA
New Jersey	15	53	.221	—
Miami	16	54	.229	—
Washington	25	43	.368	10
New York	39	28	.582	24.5
Boston	41	26	.612	26.5
Philadelphia	44	26	.629	28

Central	W	L	PCT	GA
Orlando	17	51	.250	—
Cleveland	31	36	.463	14.5
Atlanta	32	36	.471	15
Indiana	34	34	.500	17
Milwaukee	36	32	.529	19
Chicago	44	23	.657	27.5
Detroit	51	17	.750	33.5

WESTERN CONFERENCE

Midwest	W	L	PCT	GA
Charlotte	13	54	.194	—
Minnesota	18	50	.265	4.5
Houston	32	36	.471	18.5
Denver	36	32	.529	22.5
Dallas	38	29	.567	25
San Antonio	46	21	.687	33
Utah	50	19	.725	36

Pacific	W	L	PCT	GA
Sacramento	22	46	.324	—
LA Clippers	26	43	.377	2.5
Golden State	31	36	.463	9.5
Seattle	34	34	.500	12
Phoenix	46	21	.687	24.5
Portland	49	20	.710	26.5
LA Lakers	51	16	.761	29.5

BASEBALL UP-DATE

In an attempt to be utterly fair, the players and owners submitted to arbitration to settle their month long lock-out struggle. Unbeknownst to both parties, their case went to the People's Court. The irate Judge Wapner ordered the players to play for $4.35 per hour and the owners to go into the stands and sell souvenirs and peanuts this season, or until they get their heads screwed on straight. Neither side was particularly jovial when interviewed by Doug Llewellyn after the verdict. Said player rep. Paul Molitor "Wapner's a goon."

RECRUITING SCANDAL

The Missionary Training Center is currently under investigation by the NCAA, the Missionary Dept., and Athletes in Action for alleged recruiting violations stemming from their newly implemented MTC All-Star travelling basketball team. The MTC has reportedly dipped into players of other faiths, with charges that the team includes 4 Catholics, 2 Protestants, a Muslim and a Jew. The accusations stem from investigators reporting strange discussion material, including the Nicean Creed, Holy war, and Kosher Dietary laws. MTC officials vigorously denied the rumors, although one MTC employee, on the promise of anonymity, divulged that there may be some grounds for the charges, saying "Well flip, if we don't go out and get the best players we can, no one will want to hear our message anyway." Potential sanctions include a three year ban on P-Day, limitations on Church Missionary funding, and an order to bring back that ankle-crunching compressed rubber floor.

Now's your chance!
Vote today!
Who's the ugliest team in the NBA?
Is it:

A. The Boston Celtics
(Larry Bird, Kevin McHale, Dennis "Freckles" Johnson and Robert Parrish AND Coach Jimmy "WhiteFro" Rogers.)

B. The Detroit Pistons
(Dennis Rodman, John "Ears" Salley, Mark Aguirre, Vinnie "The Wart" Johnson, and Bill Laimbeer)

C. OTHER (Please list)

_____
_____
_____

Please clip and drop in locker #360 ELWC (Next to the bowling alley)

General Conference to be held in Cougar Stadium

THE LDS CHURCH announced today that the 160th Semi-Annual General Conference will be held in Cougar Stadium.

The decision to shift from the traditional Tabernacle to Cougar Stadium does not come as a surprise to many, as crowds and overflow rooms have become more and more prevalent in recent years. Blane Murdock, Mormon theologian at the University of Utah, said, "The Brethren have been toying with the idea of a change of scenery for a long time. They want to create a new, inspiring ambiance."

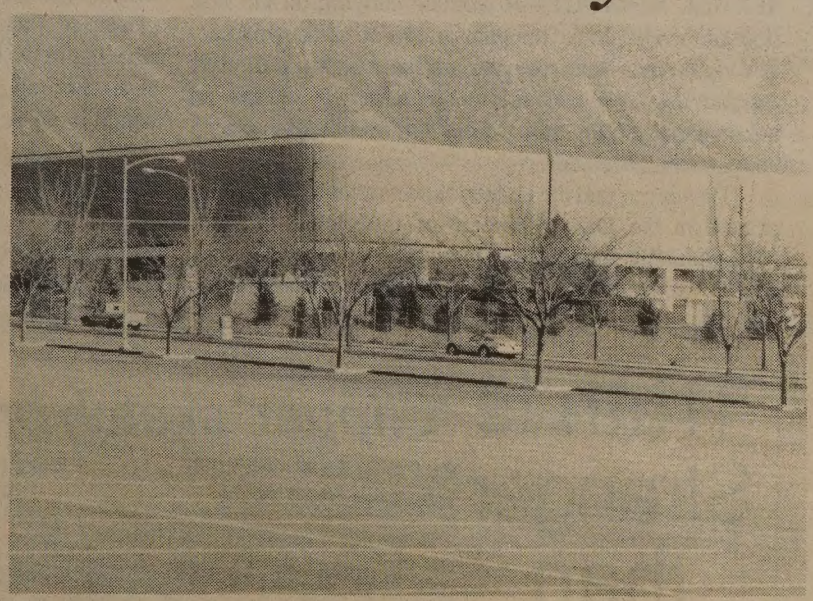
In addition to the new location, a Church spokesperson said the format of the Conference will be changed as well. "It's going to require a lot of audience participation. Prior to the Conference, we will put a dome on the roof in case of rain or snow, and also so the laser light show can be easily seen while the choir sings. When the Conference is about to start, all the lights will go out except for one. It will shine on the edge of the field and the Quorums of the Seventy will run out, busting through a paper "Choose the Right!" banner . They'll make two lines and give handshakes to the Apostles as they come out. Brother Monson said it would be just like giving 'high fives' for team spirit."

"Then, when everyone's quiet, the prophet will arrive, and they'll all take their seats on a new rotating stage which will make it possible for all to see the speakers. When the conductor asks the audience to sustain people for different offices, he'll lead the stands to raise their right hands in a wave, in sync with the stage's rotation. It'll be hard to pull off, but if it works, it could be really inspiring."

Toward the middle of each session, the quoir will don metallic robes and sing while marching in designs around the stage. A laser light show will accentuate the music. As a grand finale, grandchildren of the Brethren will perform a baton-twirling act to the choir's rendition of "The Spirit of God Like a Fire is Burning."

Outside, the new Deseret Blimp will quote important passages and points from the proceedings, so drivers and those in the parking lots can receive the word as well. The blimp's 200,000 light, digital display screen will illuminate the quotes up to a half-mile away, and Church Economists predict that the blimp's revenues from Embryo Studios' and Deseret Books' advertisements should exceed the five-digit mark, augmenting Church Welfare funds. Following the Conference, a "linger-longer" tailgating party in the surrounding parking lots will nourish the masses with specially-provided meals of fish-and-chips.

Third World Rally



A rally for Third World development was held in the Marriot Center parking lot Saturday. Concerned students from across campus gathered in the two cars shown above to promote awareness for problems of poverty and disease in developing countries. They describe it as a big success. "Not only did my dog Rufus make it," states one organizer, "but a couple of my roommates did also. After our demonstration we tossed the Frisbee around a while, then sold the Bookstore a biology textbook. We're going to send the money we raised to Mali right away."

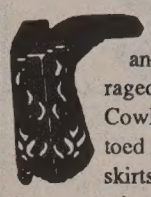
Anonymous Conversation in Three Parts:

Part One: indignant woman at a computer: Are you saying I'm a pushover?

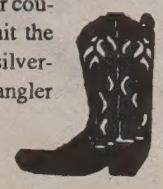
Part Two: condescending man: You never refuse. It's amazing you still have your virtue.

Part Three: audible gasp from the computer row as woman prepares to imbed Macintosh SE30 in man's forehead.

Ladies' Country Night



Join such local female trendsetters as Julie the Princess, Alyson alias "Suzie," Kim (the shy one), and Karen, the Postmodernist marauder, in their courageous search for land-rich Idaho men. They hit the CowBarn every Thursday night, wearing their silver-toed boots, their unbelievably tight & short Wrangler skirts, their pearl-snapped shirts & their coordinating hats. Witness their forays! Join them this week, ladies, and you'll have a great time!



WHY EAT AT THE COUGAREAT?

The recent vogue for anorexia is passing. Hearty Cougareat regulars look substantial & trustworthy, not like those liberal vegetarian ecology freaks. And hey, girls, Rubenesque women are becoming popular again. So don't be afraid of putting on a little weight. Let people know where you stand on the traditional American values of meat & potatos, conservatism & conspicuous consumption, okay?

WE'RE NOT APRIL FOOLIN' !

Take an extra

25% off

All sale stickered items through April 3, 1990

COUGARABILIA
1545 N. Canyon Rd.
Provo
374-1555

D I S C O V E R

SCIZZORS
Full Service Salon

FREE 8 oz. BOTTLE OF AVEDA SHAMPOO with haircut or perm

A wedding gift for the bride and groom.
A FREE Aveda hair care package ($26.25 value)
with purchase of a bride and groom's haircut.

373-4155
37 WEST ♦ 300 NORTH ♦ PROVO

D I F F E R E N C E

Ecclesiastical
Endorsement
S E R V I C E

Call 377-2980 today

C O N F E R E N C E

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Tuesday, April 3
Room 375 ELWC
9:00 International Development
10:00 Economic Approaches to Development
1:00 Role of Education in Development
Room 238 HRCB
2:00 Enterprise Development
5:00 International Development Films
Room 375 ELWC
7:30 Agricultural Development in China

Wednesday, April 4
Room 375 ELWC
9:00 Sustainability of International Projects
Room 238 HRCB
1:30 Role of USAID in Agricultural Development
2:30 Rural Development Projects
Room 375 ELWC
6:30 Dinner Speech: Health Challenges Worldwide

Contact the David M. Kennedy Center for the complete program

POLICE BEAT

One of the following "Police Beats" we made up. The other appeared in The Daily Universe on Friday, March 23, apparently not in jest. Which is which? Only The Daily Universe reader knows for sure.

Police Beat #1

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman sleeping on the fourth floor of the Harold B. Lee Library awoke to find an unknown male standing next to her and looking down on her. The victim said the male looked similar to the picture printed in the Daily Universe of the male involved in the clipping incidents in the library.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman who was alone on the bottom floor of the East Crandall House said she was startled by an unknown male. The women said the male looked like the drawing in the Daily Universe. The women spoke to the male, but he did not answer her. He walked around and then left.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman sleeping on the third floor of the HBLL awoke when she felt something under her left arm. The woman looked to her left and saw a male, fitting the description of the library clothes clipper, sitting next to her. The woman did not report the incident until she read the article in the Daily Universe.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A Utah drivers license was turned into Campus Craft that matched the composite drawing printed in the Daily Universe of the HBLL clothes snipper.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—An unknown person entered a women's apartment in the Riveriera Apartment complex. The person then went to each bedroom and cut holes in the residents clothing. The residents of the apartment had been leaving a window open because one of the occupants lost her key. It is believed that this incident is related to the HBLL clothes snipper.

SEXUAL ASSAULT—A woman studying on the first floor of the HBLL had her pants cut by an unknown male. The victim said while studying, someone lightly pulled on her pant leg. When she felt metal on her leg, she saw an unkown male sitting next to her. The victim also noticed her pants had been cut.

The victim said the male looked similar to the picture printed in the Daily Universe of the clothes clipper. Anyone having information on this person should contact the University Police.

Police Beat #2

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman sleeping on the first floor of the HBLL woke to find an unknown male lying under her table and looking up at her. The victim said the male looked similar to the one she had seen earlier sitting on her lap in her study carrel.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman who was alone in the tunnels under campus was startled by an unknown sketch of a male. The woman said that the drawing looked like a man she saw cutting holes in a Daily Universe. The woman spoke to the sketch, but it did not answer her. It fluttered around and then blew away.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman sleeping (you know where) woke when she felt a blonde male cutting off her left arm. The woman didn't report the incident until she read the life-saving article in The Daily Universe. She lived, but the arm could not be saved.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—The HBLL clothes clipper turned in his driver's license, and it did not resemble the composite drawing of him. The Daily Universe plans to apologize in their next issue.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman in the library was seen cutting out pieces of her own clothing and claiming that a handsome, blonde male had done it. Police believe she just wanted some attention.

SUSPICIOUS INCIDENT—A woman raged through the library, cutting entire pieces of clothing off of male students. The attacks are believed to be acts of revenge for the incidents in which women had pieces of their clothing cut out while they were sleeping in the library. The woman is described as 5-or-so-feet tall, amber-haired, with a pony tail stub which looks as though it was hastily cut off. So far, two University of Utah sororities have taken credit for the attack.

SUSPICIOUS INTENT—Joe Cannon announced that Geneva Steel will now select a Geneva Steel pseudo-liberal-environmentalist of the week.

Truth is Stranger than Fiction Dept.

'Clipper' sketch brings leads

By PAISLEY P. MILLER
Universe Staff Writer

Some BYU students are following the example of the TV show "America's Most Wanted" by helping the University Police solve the Harold B. Lee Library clothes clipper case.

The University Police now have three suspects in the clipper case because of tips from students. Several people gave tips to the University Police after seeing the composite sketch of the clipper in The Daily Universe.

Lt. Dan Evans of the University Police said the suspects will be questioned and their pictures taken. The pictures will then be put in a photographic line-up and the victims will be asked to identify the clipper.

Stu Morley, a semi-retired FBI agent, is helping the University Police on this case. Evans said he is the "best qualified to handle it."

The first incident with the library clipper happened on March 5 and the reports have been coming in since then. The clipper's mode of operation is to cut holes in women's clothing as they are sleeping, though one incident happened while the woman was awake and studying.

Seven incidents of clothes clipping have been reported to the University Police. Several incidents of a suspicious nature involving a person fitting the description of the clipper have also been reported.

Used without permission of The Daily Unviverse.

Cougarette Poetry

THE COUGARETTES, those famed BYU precision dancers, have captured the hearts of thousands with their trademark sparkling smiles and shimmering lycra costumes. They have come to stand for the best in BYU women—beauty, balance, big hair. And the BYU community has grown to love the Cougarettes from afar.

Now, with the unexpected discovery and publication of manuscripts found in an abandoned make-up bag in a costume room in 146 RB, we can draw closer to the Cougarettes, learn of their passions, their hopes, and their fears. Confessions of a Cougarette is an anthology in which ten Cougarette poets tear aside the mesh and satin, take off their make-up, and truly bare their souls to their audience.

Said poet LaRaine Tanner, "I always felt so detached from the faces in the crowd. I was just a dancer to them, just another blonde in spandex. I wanted to show the world that I suffer! I struggle! I feel! I fall upon the thorns of life! My lipstick bleeds!"

The Cougarettes have taken remarkable risks on the pages of this volume and, frankly, leave themselves vulnerable to the ridicule of the public. "But then again," said dancer JenElle Romney, "my art, whether on stage or on the page, is dangerous exposure. But I'm no stranger to ridicule. There's always someone in the top row throwing popcorn. But self-expression, immortality, catharsis... it's art, dammit. It's worth the risk."

Her piece, "Self-esteem at Half-time," demonstrates this attitude, masterfully eliciting our sympathy.

They laugh and snicker with cold stares
I think the girls envy my big blonde hair
The guys must be jealous too
Cuz their girlfriends don't look as good in lycra as I do
The freshman boys are mean fellows
They pelt us with their marshmallows
And as I dance sometimes I think
About my last boyfriend (he was a fink)
And how he's sitting in the stands up high
Joking with friends about the width of my thighs
And through it all without lament
I give one hundred and ten percent
And smile and keep reaching for the sky
Cuz nobody's as special as I.

The precision and timing mastered by these artists in the practice room appears also in their poems. The writers of Confessions of a Cougarette demonstrate a surprising mastery of the language as they turn their heaviest feelings into poetry that jetes and pirouettes across the page. Notice the symmetry, euphony, and balance of this piece called "Poetry of the Foot" by Bountiful native Chantilla Blake.

I luv
the dance
cuz dance is romance.

Other poets have mastered the style of the concrete imagists. LaDawn Franklin's inspiring work is one example of this.

so much depends upon

a red lip stick

rolled up full length

beside the fake eyelashes

Much of the Cougarettes' poetry cries out about the dancers' struggles to fulfill demands placed upon them. MaeLene Richards of Burley, Idaho wrote this poem, "dammit janet," after an especially tough day at practice. Richards recalls that the squad was trying to choreograph a number from a Janet Jackson video and she was unable to perform many of Miss Jackson's trademark moves. With the stinging criticism of her squadmates ringing in her head, she penned this work in frustration.

dammit janet
i have known sadness
through the pain tears fall like rain
  my eyeliner runs
i have known oppression
i've felt the weight of quiet hate thick like aqua net
my feet have written these poems in the sand
dammit janet
this white girl got soul
so why ain't this white girl got rhythm?

The existence of a Cougarette is filled with constant public and self scrutiny. Resulting Cougarette angst is revealed in this piece, "Big Hair Betrayal", written by one of the most remarkable young talents in this volume, freshman KathAnne Kelly.

he said
he liked my hair
  running his fingers down to the very dark roots of my soul
  chasing its big blonde bouf in the spring sunshine listening to Sinead O'Connor behind my back he lied.

KathAnne cancans in the face of the abysmal absurd with her personal search for authenticity entitled "fear and trembling."

in my duty dance with death, i begin
i pirouette i twirl i spin
my dreams flash like sequins that spin in the limelight and madness spin until my legs tremble i spin, i collapse fallen, torn within
"does anyone have a safety pin?"

Confessions of a Cougarette is on sale now at all Cougarette performances and at the BYU bookstore.

Food Service Staff Poetry

Life in a Nutshell Sandwich

Ham and cheese? Peanut butter and jelly? Turkey? Chicken? (White or dark?)
Roast beef? Egg salad? Tuna? Steak? Bologna? Head cheese? Or mixed cold cuts?
On Rye, white, or wheat?
Tomato? Lettuce? Sprouts? Avocado? With bacon-bits or strips?
Olives? Cranberry sauce? Gravy? Pineapple? Butter? Sand or dust?
Beans? Onions? Croutons? Radish? Hot sauce? Celery? A-1?
Catsup? Relish? (sweet or dill or both?), secret sauce or sunflower seeds?
Maybe mayonnaise, mustard, or miracle whip?
Spread with a knife, a spoon, or an eggbeater?
Double decker? With the Crusts?
like hors d'oeuvres. . .with toothpicks?
Cut in halves, fourths, seventeenths, or whole?
For here or to go?

—Elder P.N. Richardson

Elder Richardson is currently serving a mission in Mexico City (East), and is a former Food Service staff-member

Springboard Publisher II
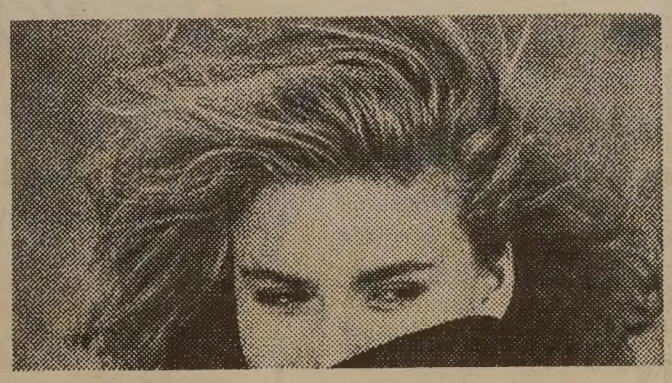
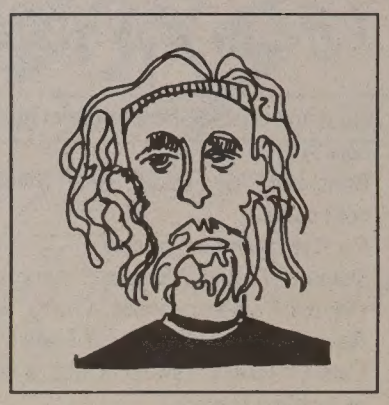
SPRINGBOARD
Retail Price $199.95
Our Price $154.97
Before.
Soon After.

MAD MAC
Computer Store
801-377-6565
PlumTree Center
2250 N. University Pkwy
Provo, Utah 84604

TAYLORMAID
Turn their heads with a new spring look


SPECIAL: ACRYLIC NAILS
$17.99
Perm & Haircut $25.00
(Extra for long hair)
makeover $10.00
•Paul Mitchell • Sebastian • Focus 21 • Alanil • KMS • Helene Curtis • Nexus Loréal • Zotos • Lanza•
Provo 375-7928

Standards Survival Guide



MANY PEOPLE CALLED into Standards leave their sessions feeling overwhelmed, taken advantage of, and even violated. Understandably so, with all the posturing, pretense, and prying of Standards' counselors.

Now, after months of careful research, Student Enquirer is proud to present the Standards Survival Guide. No longer do you have to feel like a victim during your Standards visit. Take the upper hand. Go in prepared with your own plans and your own posture. After listening to Standards' own tapes of several hundred sessions and sending in test models to gauge counselor reaction, we have compiled composites of three distinct approaches you can take to surviving a Standards interrogation without being manipulated.

MOLLY MORMON APPROACH:

Pretend you're compliant, repentant, sincere. Tremble, promise to never do it again. This is a both win situation—they'll love it, let you off lightly, and chalk up another success for modern psychology. You'll laugh as soon as you walk out the door.

What to wear: White is a must for both sexes to maintain that archetypal image of purity. Lace is preferable on women, while men are encouraged to wear oxford button downs with conservative pattern pullover sweaters. All tenets of the dress code must be obeyed to make this work.

What to say: Pepper your speech with Mormon cliches. Feign innocence or innocently implicate others. "I had no idea that guys weren't allowed to spend the night! That's not what ____ told me."

The key here is sweet and soft-spoken. Utah accents are a plus.

If things get sticky: Tremble, bear your testimony, and, most effectively, cry.

HENRY DAVID THOREAU APPROACH:

Join Gandhi and Martin Luther King in your own practice of passive resistance. Read your copy of Civil Disobedience before you reach the third floor of the Kimball Tower, and then bring it with you into the session. In an attache case, also bring copies of the Geneva Convention, Bill of Rights, and scriptures.

What to wear: Homespun is preferable for the true Gandhi look. Otherwise, a simple, classic court-room look is effective. Slim lines, dark colors, nothing garish. Navy blue works extremely well.

What to say: Speak carefully and profoundly. Use big words, cite authority: scripture, law, the Daily Universe. Pretend to listen, then humbly refute every point and accusation. Standards counselors are either amazed by this approach or simply do not understand the vocabulary used. Studies have shown that the severity of the punishment is inversely proportional to the number of times the violator refers to the Doctrine and Covenants.

If things get sticky: Plead the fifth, call your lawyer, or sit in the office until you are dragged out.

SID VICIOUS APPROACH:

Surprisingly, you can scare Standards personnel into leaving you alone. The key is show of strength. Never let this front down.

To be used in only the most difficult cases or when you're feeling particularly plucky.

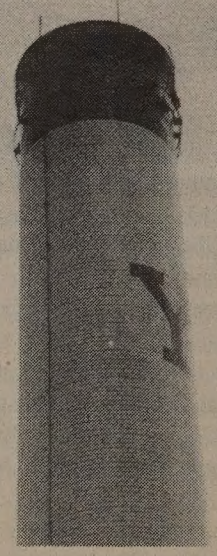
What to wear: Black leather. Chain mail. Metal objects hanging from various appendages. Big skull rings. Combat boots. Earrings are not recommended as to minimize their ammunition against you.

What to say: As little as possible. Just sit there and stare at them while they talk and try to become your friend. Don't ever become their friend

If things get sticky: Say "I dunno." Laugh at times. Belch or pick your nose and deter a particularly tough line of questioning with vulgarity.

Cougarettes to model

IN ORDER TO BOOST the sagging sales of women's fashions, the BYU Bookstore has enlisted the Cougarettes to model its specially coordinated "Say it with Spandex and Sequins" line. The famous BYU precision dance corps will model the bold, innovative fashion pieces on-campus during the class day and will make special appearances at off-campus events to demonstrate the day-to-night versatility of the clothing.



Great traditions smoke through BYU's heritage.

The BYU Physical Plant Smokestack spews out tradition every hour. The Daily Universe will present a special Heritage Edition that will feature BYU's great traditions. Walk through memory lane with spotlights of BYU's past. Step into the future and learn about BYU's future goals. Learn what you can do right now to make a good heritage for BYU. This is an edition you won't want to miss. Keep it to remember your BYU experience and wonder why this sounds like high school all over again.

Heritage Edition, March 28

It does make you wonder sometimes, BYU.

ARE YOU SICK OF READING THIS PAPER?

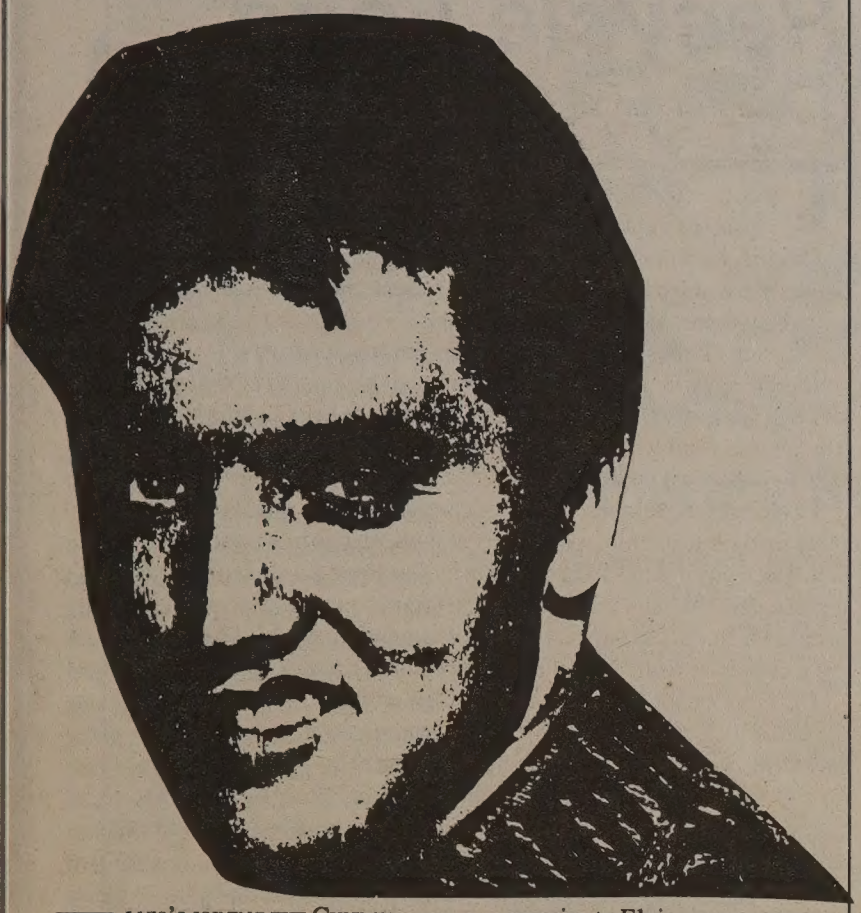
Do the Eavesdropper and Top Twenty seem passé?
Feel like the "clothes clipper" is the only story in town?

Then go where the REAL news is made.

Spend Fall semester in Washington, D.C., and see Bush, broccoli, and Barry make the headlines.

Over 500 internship possibilities, excursions, and a full semester's credit for qualified students on the Washington Seminar. Applications are still being accepted. For additional information visit 745 SWKT or call 378-6029.

ELVIS to teach at BYU



ELVIS'S JOINING THE CHURCH came as a surprise to Elvis experts everywhere. He first met Elders Nephi Noosebomb and East Winston when shopping for jelly doughnuts at Provo's own Doughnut Hole. The Elders and Elvis began by trading fat jokes, but a strong relationship of trust quickly developed when the Elders offered to share their large box of glazed twists.

"That Elder Noosebomb sure is a jolly guy! giggle, giggle, snort," said Elvis.

It was Elder Winston who first realized that the pair were breaking bread with Elvis himself, and invited him to a special showing of Saturday's Warrior. Presley soon had himself and the two missionaries driven to every Mormon musical in the state. These musicals played a key role in Elvis's joining the Church and have deeply effected his own music.

"My writings," said Elvis "are much mellower and deeply spiritual now, kind of like a fudgesicle or a plate of really good lasagna."

Professor Presley signed a special Honor Code promising that he would "neither sing from desk tops nor engage in any aggressive pelvic behavior." He felt that such an addition to the Code signed by all religion professors might not be bad. The faculty is said to have greeted their new comrade with open arms especially after noticing his neat wardrobe.

Dr. Presley will be teaching Religion 326, "Gospel Tunes," and 327, "Food in the Standard Works."

Satan lives in Deseret Towers

REPORTED SIGHTINGS of a large, reddish complexioned male, have been made in Q-Hall, Deseret Towers. Dorm records show that Thomise L. Natas transferred during winter break from the University of Maryland. Natas, a self-proclaimed Prince of Darkness, is wanted by the University Police for dorm violations and general global disruption. Natas has been missing since Friday evening, when he failed to show up for his ecclesiastical endorsement interview. His roommate, whose name is confidential, stated that Thomise had mumbled something about going to study in the library. The roommate later noticed that his scissors had been stolen.

Sixth floor residents of Q-Hall claim that Thomise, in a fit of hysteria, incited a riot last Thursday evening. He purportedly brainwashed a large group of young men who dragged Thomise's nieghbor, Merlin Ellis into the bathroom. There, while burning black pig-fat candles, they shaved Ellis's head and smoked the cuttings while listening to Led Zepplin IV. Merlin had reportedly been playing his Barry Manilow collection too loud. Ellis commented, "I've always wanted to be a trauma victim - do you think I'm damaged for life? I think I'll drop out and become a Krishna; heck, I've got the hair for it." Ellis is currently undergoing psychological evaluation at the SWKT counseling center.

In the past Natas has allegedly been involed in vandalizing the dorm elevators, throwing equipment off the roof, and other henious crimes. Floor neighbors claim that he is "a little different, but way cool to hang with." They also claim that Natas is guilty of screaming obscenities out the windows, and flushing the toilets repeatedly while waiting for a shower. After floor prayer one Sunday night, Natas reportedly painted his dorm room number to read Q-666. If anyone has seen him, please contact the University Police. They have stated that the use of excessive force is planned at his arrest.

Actual Quotations

Technological progress is like an axe in the hands of a pathological criminal.
—Albert Einstien

What luck for rulers that men do not think.
—Adolf Hitler

The length of a film should be directly related to the endurance of the human bladder.
—Alfred Hitchcock

Oh Lord, help me to be pure, but not yet.
—St. Augustine

You make God sick.
—Fortune cookie message

I should warn you that underneath these clothes I'm wearing boxer shorts and I know how to use them.
—Robert Orben

Blonds have the hottest kisses. Redheads are fair-to-midway torrid, and brunettes are the fridgest of all. It's something to do with the hormones, no doubt.
—Ronald Reagan

If I only had a little humility I would be perfect.
—Ted Turner

I do belive I am a glow worm.
—Winston Churchill

A mind is a terrible thing to lose.
—Dan Quayle (while addressingthe United Negro College Fund)

President's Wife Grocery Store Mogul

Recently, shoppers at Albertsons on University Parkway spotted the wife of BYU President Rex E. Lee, Janet Lee, cruising the aisles in dark glasses and a trench coat.

Sister Lee spent much time in the canned fruit and vegetable aisles, checking out the displays of her Janet Lee brand products. She dusted off cans, re-arranged shelves, and compared prices to her major competitors. She paused to smile at the Bartlett pears in light syrup, a best seller and lingered especially long by the canned beets, fussing over their position on the bottom shelf.

Sister Lee's personal interest in her line of groceries stems partially from a belief in "high quality canned foods at low prices, tailored to the needs of starving students and large families," according to BYU Public Communications director Paul Richards.

But in-depth investigation by Student Enquirer staff has revealed that Sister Lee is not motivated solely by consumer concerns. A financial profile of the Lee family shows that royalties and profits from the Janet Lee canned food line bring in $6.3 million dollars in net revenue yearly, $400,000 from the Bartlett pears alone. Janet Lee is responsible for 82% of the Lee family income.

When asked about his wife's entrepreneurial prowess, Rex E. Lee responded, "No, I'm not threatened. Heck, if Janet can bring in that much from fruit cocktail and sweet peas, I'm doing okay."

A Finals Parable

And it came to pass that early on the morn of the last day, there arose a multitude smiting their books and wailing. And there were among them many weepers and gnashers of teeth, for the day of judgment was at hand, and they were sore afraid. Notwithstanding, some rejoiced.

For the disconsolate had left undone those things which they ought to have done and had done the things which they ought not to have done. For these, justice was at hand and there was no help for it.

And these were they who left wise roommates abiding in the dorms to keep watch over their books by night, but it availeth them not. And these wise ones were known to some as the burners of the midnight oil. But, by others, they were called curve-slayers and were sorely despised.

And they came into their appointed place, and their hearts were heavy within them. And some among them repented of their riotous living and bemoaned their fate, but they had not a prayer. And at the appointed hour, there came one among them smiling, and he passed among them and went on his way.

Many and varied were the questions thereon, but still more and varied were the answers given. Moreover, some of the teachings had fallen on fertile soil and some had fallen fallow, but most had fallen flat.

And there was among them a small number who offered up a sacrificial bull in honor of the instructor. But he answered them, "Mercy cannot rob justice," and he accepted no more bull from them. But there were others among them that wrote for one hour, and some two, and a few wrote for three hours and smiled, for they came to pass.

Cougareat to Recycle Food

Cougareat, Provo (SPS)—

The director of Food Services announced last month that the Cougareat has decided to join in the recycling euphoria that has recently swept across BYU.

The director announced that Food Service employees generate over 5 tons of discarded food each day: "This is just a phenomenal amount of carbohydrates, when you think about it. We don't feel good about just tossing all those high-fat, low-nutrition food products."

The Food Services recycling program will begin at the Cougareat and will gradually evolve to include the residence halls and the MTC. The unused food will be sorted and recycled according to its most effective disposal method.

Two disposal methods are under consideration at this time. The most costly, but also most philanthropic method, is to box the food and ship it to needy regions around the world. One Food Service employee commented, "When I didn't eat all the food on my plate, my mother always told me about the starving people around the world. This gives me a chance to really help them on a personal basis."

The other option is to sell the discarded products to Geneva Steel for fuel in their new, expensive oxygen furnaces. Joe Cannon, Geneva president, commented that, "I am just trying to help. After everything I've given to BYU and the community, I'm only too glad to see a return on my investment. After all, burning that food couldn't make my situation any worse."

New Cut Rate Student Insurance

Student Review announced yesterday that Sam Warbucks will head up its new insurance plan for struggling students in Utah which would satisfy the demands of BYU's mandatory insurance requirements. Students for only $2.00 would be given an insurance policy protecting them from, "indigestion and callouses." "For $2.00," Warbucks stated, "students will be protected from a variety of ailments. Our policy guarantees them several aspirin and a decorative get-well card sent in the mail. We are quick and efficient."

Ten Famous Ronald Reagan Quotes...

1. "I just don't recall."
2. "Sorry, I can't remember."
3. "I seem to have forgotten."
4. "I don't recollect."
5. "I apologize, but I don't remember."
6. "I can't recall."
7. "I don't recollect."
8. "I seem to have not remembered."
9. "I really don't recollect."
10. "Gosh, I seem unable to recall."

BYU Announces Tuition Refunds for Church Attendance

Provo (SPS)—

Brigham Young University announced that to encourage compliance with new University policies, they will provide a pro rata tuition refund based on meeting attendance percentage.

BYU stated that although there is "no official University policy on minimum attendance," they wanted to "help out those students who sacrifice so much." The full tuition fee will still be assessed from each student every year; however, at the end of each semester the College of Student Life in conjunction with local bishops will allocate a tuition rebate for each student based on attendance percentage.

The University announced the pro rata refund schedule effective Fall semester 1990. No refund will be awarded for attendance below 50%. I. M. Lyeing, a Student Life spokesman, noted that "this is a university. In academic areas we don't provide benefits for below average effort. Student Life cannot allow substandard performance either."

An attendance percentage of up to 65% will qualify students for a 15% refund. Percentages of up to 90% attendance will provide students with a 25% tuition refund. Students posting above 90% Church attendance will be awarded a 30% refund and tithing discounts.

Students obtaining an attendance percentage above 100%, in their legal BYU ward, will be eligible for three credit hours of general religion credit and exemption from the Ecclesiastical Endorsement for the subsequent two semesters.

University administration sources commented that, "We believe this new policy will encourage BYU students to fulfill their duties in a manner more appropriate for the 90s."

John Lennon recruited for BYUSA

For the third time since his election one-and-one half months ago, BYUSA President Brett Blake announced vital new changes in BYUSA structure.

Student Life Grand Dame Maren Mouritsen and Blake held a special press conference on March 26 in the Cougareat with the hopes of "achieving maximum involvement of as many students as possible in the new BYU vision of service to every kindred, people, and tongue." While dodging scoops of refried beans from Cougareat taco salads, the two announced the enlistment of three hundred new assistant and administrative vice-presidents. Said Mouritsen, "We have all received special inspiration that this indeed will expand the BYUSA vision of service through diverse and focused involvement while keeping us on track towards larger opportunities for leadership development among all sectors of the BYU student body."

Several notable figures were recruited to fill new BYUSA posts.

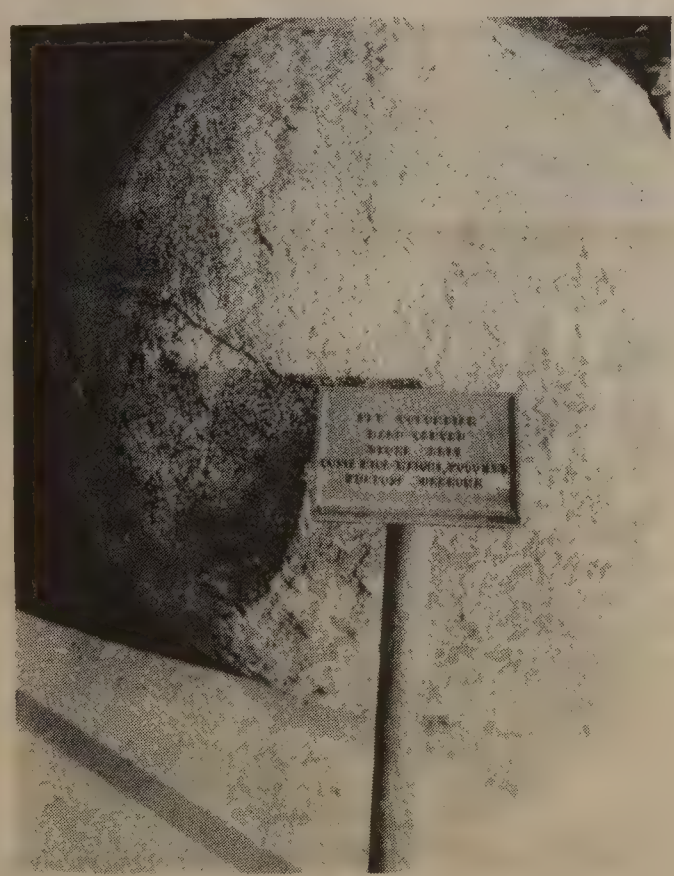
The ghost of John Lennon was enlisted as Assistant Vice President of Slogans. "We were so impressed with Mr. Lennon's lyric 'imagine all the people...' that we decided to adopt it as the official slogan for our Y-Day service fest," said Blake. A further study of his work has revealed many other lines appropriate for future publicity campaigns including "Why Don't We Do it in the Road?", "Revolution," and "Helter Skelter."

Bart Simpson was named as the Administrative Vice President of Student Attitude. Since Simpson was the number one recipient of write-in votes and therefore the only democratically elected candidate, he was given the post as a "true emissary of the average BYU student." Simpson commented, "Ay Carumba! I never expected Maren to have a cow just cuz I ran for prez. But then again, watch out dude, I'm Bart Simpson so get the hell out of my way."

Finally, in recognition of their valiant service under BYUSA President Jeff Singer, Horton the Elephant (of Dr. Suess fame) and major cinema figures Bill and Ted were selected to form a junta council to occupy the post of Administrative Assistant Vice President of Speechwriting.and Vacuous Rhetoric.

Library Stripper

This is a composite sketch of a male who was seen by the victims of the clothes stripper. The victims had their clothes entireley removed as they slept in the Harold B. Lee Library. When they awoke, they saw the man matching the stetch above leering at them, although he had not been there when they went to sleep. None of the victims realized that they were naked until approached by standards officials later in the day. The stripper was described as being between 5'2" and 6'5", weighing between 150 and 300 lbs., with a large mole on his cheek.



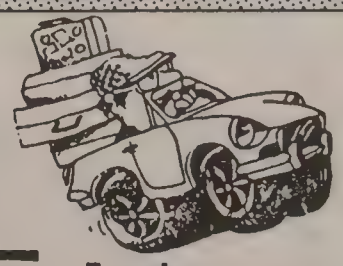
Precolumbian Bowling Ball?

After the demolition of the Joseph Smith Building, one of only three pre-Columbian bowling balls in existence will take its rightful place in the Marriot Center, enshrined in glass between pictures of Danny Ainge giving post-game piggy back rides and the first BYU football team to win games in two consecutive seasons.

The Orb has been called a significant find by both Mormon scholars and archeologists alike. An anonomys member of the relgion faculty gloated exulatantly, "Remember those Jaradite breastplates that Limhi's guys found? Large and sound? Giants in the land in Enoch's day? Huh, huh?" Commenting on the absence of finger-holes, one member of the ancient South American scholarly community exclaimed, "Overhand bowling, just like I've always claimed. We have a sissified contamination of the sport at best, nowadays."

Still, there are detractors, including those who claim that the spheroid is not a piece of ancient sports equipment but a kidney stone passed by a curelom or cumom .

Quality repairs at affordable prices.



IMPORT AUTO CENTER

Foreign cars are our specialty, not a sideline.

800 S.University Ave.
Provo 374-8881

B Y U
PERFORMING ARTS SERIES

QUEEN IDA

and The Bon Temps Zydeco Band

Thursday, April 5, 1990 • deJong Concert Hall • 7:30 p.m.
Tickets: $7.00 Student/Faculty/Sr. Citizen $9.00 General Public
Tickets available at Music Ticket Office, HFAC • 378-7444

"Ida and Bon Temps burn the Cajun Fire of Zydeco
Music Review

The Queen will have you off your seat and dancing in the aisles, Don't Miss It!

PRESIDENT'S HOUSE NOW A SAFEHOUSE

Careful 24-hour surveillance of what used to be the University President's home has shown that, as suspected, twelve unidentified students are indeed living there.

And if University Standards has its way, the dozen will remain unidentified.

Although Assistant Dean of Student Life Ryan Thomas refused to confirm anything, sources close to President Rex E. Lee reported that Rex gave University Standards permission to use the lovely home, located in the shade of the stately oaks on Campus Drive, as a safe house for former Standards informants.

With its four bedrooms, backyard bird bath, open, light-filled living spaces, and scenic view of the Maeser building and western Provo, the home provides a wonderful refuge for those who sacrificed their public lives in this most sacred duty.

To provide maximum security and safety for the twelve informants and to ensure that "they have the opportunity to live the Honor Code as all upright BYU students should," the house has undergone certain modifications. Listening devices have been attached to house phones to monitor all incoming calls and additional bugs have been placed in various house plants and shrubery to monitor insurrections or attacks from within or without the home. "Our main concern is their safety," said an unidentified Standards official. The walls have been reinforced with granite and special deadbolt locks for additional physical safety. All doors are locked nightly at 10 pm to ensure that no unwanted visitors disturb the privacy of the informants.

In addition, the informants have been given new names, new majors, new social security numbers, and new hometowns to provide a total new identity under Standards' new "Sacred Witness Relocation Program." University-funded plastic surgery has provided new noses for the men and liposuction for the female informants. All informants' fingerprints have been removed from their fingers with a light acid, courtesy of the chemistry department.

"These special witnesses sacrificed their friends and their popularity to serve us and they will be rewarded in the heavens with many mansions. We want to begin that reward today on earth by giving them a small token of esteem, the President's home," said a Standards' official.

The Fabulous 1990 Brigham Awards

This years winners of the prestigious Brigham Film Award include the following:

Most Inspirational: Priceless Bride

The highly acclaimed Johnny Lingo continues his quest for a true ten cow wife after Mahana leaves him to pursue her modeling career. His journey takes him to Beaver, Utah, where, at a stake Special-Interest dance he is struck with the inner beauty of young Joanna Brooks. Excellent supporting acting by Bessie, Daisy, Miss O'Leary's cow, and Bret Blake.

Best Actor: Fatal Transaction

Joe Cannon, in the critically acclaimed Fatal Transaction, depicts a seemingly benevolent financial resource for a young university president. As the plot unfolds, the atmosphere thickens, making the revered presidents morning runs impossible. Some say this film is tainted. We say it "taint enough."

Best Sound Track: Filthy Prancing

AfterGlow and Janice Kapp Perry team up in this musical adventure. It's the story of Skip Daily, former Young Ambassador turned Chippendale dancer. Songs like "Blame it on the Refrain" help illustrate Skip's struggle with the satanic influences of rock and roll. Cameo appearances by Cher, Madonna, Alice Cooper, and a special number by the BYU Cougarettes. Great choreography by Matt Coates.

Most Effective Conversion Tool: The Good News Brothers

Larry Kestler and John Armstrong play twins, separated at birth, now reunited in the Antarctica South Mission. Determined to be the best missionaries the world has ever seen, they bring investigators to baptism by singing their special brand of the blues. Sheet music of their original hits is available at Deseret Book and D.I.

Best Supporting Crew: Provo-Cop

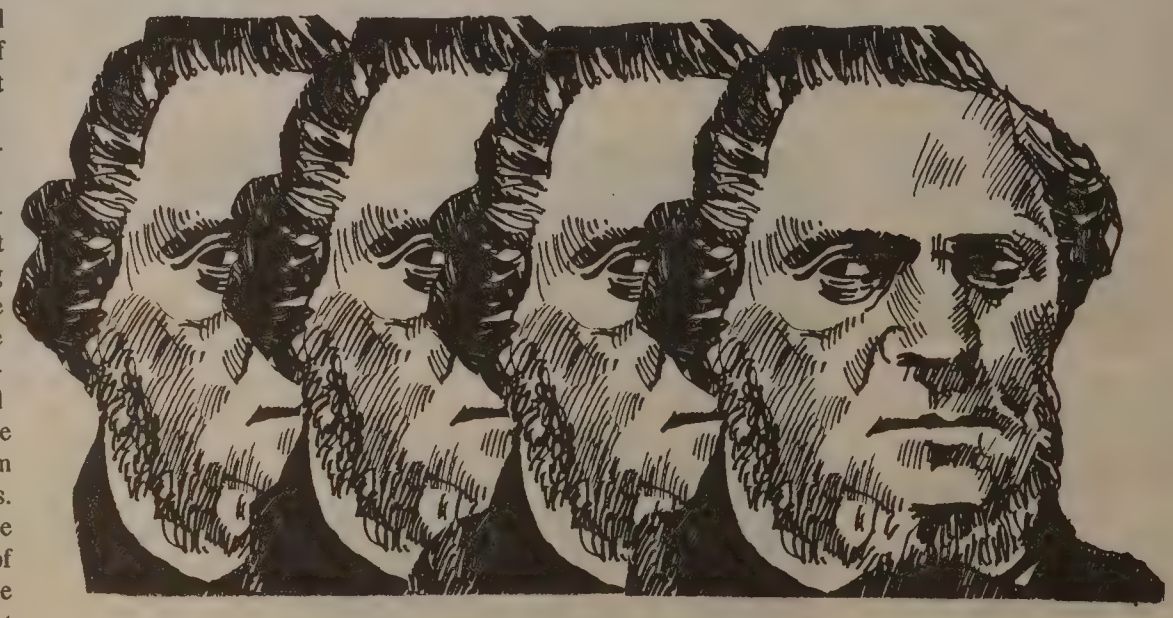
The story of one man, a recycled standards councilor against the hordes of heathens infiltrating the BYU campus. The suspense builds as the heathens pressure innocent temple recommend holders into growing their hair and shortening their skirts. In one violent scene an elders quorum symbolically burns their socks. When receiving the award the producer thanked the students of BYU for making the film possible by their candid role as the support crew.

Best Horror Film: Close Encounter All The Time

The story of a small-town university that exceeds its enrollment quota to such a degree that the weight and mass of the combined student population distorts the orbit of the earth, which in turn throws off the balance of the solar system causing the Milky Way Galaxy to radically alter its course, destroying the Universe. This movie made its premiere in the Varsity II on our own BYU campus. However, none of the students who attended realized they where at a premiere. One student remarked, "Heck, I thought this was my American Heritage class..." Rumor has it that the screenplay for this movie was actually written by a BYU administration official.

Film Least Likely to Tell Your Bishop You Saw: Sixteen Vandals

The story of sixteen disenchanted freshmen who feel confined by the conservative environment of a large mid-western university. They choose to protest their conditions first by stealing silverware and bananas from the school cafeteria. One by one they each develop a psychotic obsession with large appliances which symbolize the oppression they feel. In a late night fit of passion the appliances are thrown from the top of the dorm. Excellent stunt work by Frigidaire.



Best Documentary: Driving Students Crazy

A training film for faculty, administration and staff at a church affiliated university. Contains graphic footage of student response to techniques such as " the run around," " the wild goose chase" "arbitrary enforcement" and "the random sock check." The documentary was produced with the intent to help faculty and staff prepare students for the real world. When asked about the relevancy of the "sock doctrine" the producers remarked; "wearing clean socks is just as important as wearing clean underwear. You can never tell when you may have an accident." The writer of the screenplay is a world renown expert on Machiavellian diplomacy.

Honorable Mentions included:

- Nephi Jones and the Lost Ten Tribes
- The Dead Prophets Society
- Manna in the Spring
- Rex and Janets Excellent Adventure
- Honey, We Must Have Kids
- The Break the Fast Club
- Fetch
- The Good, the Bad, and the Unmarried

Direct from Finland

Precision razor-quality

Fiskars

designed to fit the requirements of the most discriminating

copy cat clipper

"I wouldn't enter the library without them"

—Snipper Blake

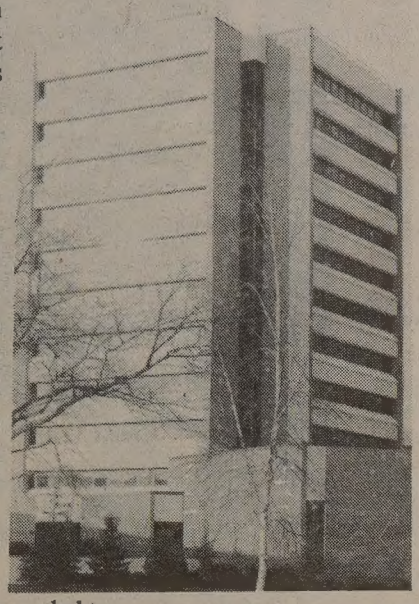
now on sale for

$59.99

Available at fine stores everywhere

Standards Brainwashing

Sources wishing to remain nameless have revealed that BYU Standards violators are now being forced to undergo dress and grooming brainwashing on the twelfth floor of the Kimball Tower. For years the location of the university's behavior modification studies, the twelfth floor has recently been renovated to include facilities for specialized treatments designed to help bring straying students "back to the fold." The technique is said to involve subjecting the offender to ten consecutive hours of Steven Perry tunes, "Not of the World" videos, and interviews with each Standards official.



"Occasionally, if the case is extreme, we keep them here for days at a time. Our ultimate goal is to inspire young ladies to once again be proud to wear their Young Women's Medallion. In our eyes, there is nothing more attractive than a woman displaying pride in her virtue, and the medallion is the perfect way to show this. In young men, we want to instill the desire to wear a white shirt and tie at least two school days a week. Our campus is unique, and this is one way we can show it."

We were able to find a reformed Standards violator. Unfortunately, he would not talk to us, but Rod Zoom, roommate of the "new and improved" Harley Leather, was glad to.

"It's scary, man," commented Zoom. "He won't even ride with us anymore. All he does is wash and iron his white shirts and sing something about not being of the world. I never take off my shades when I'm around him now. I'm afraid his glow might blind me."

Harley's roomates claimed that they had noticed smiling men in forest green leisure suits following Harley for three days prior to the mysterious day-long disappearance. The next time they saw him, the change had occurred. Sightings of these leisure-suited leprechauns are most often reported in the vicinity of the Joseph Smith Building.

BYUSA Announces Bold Policy Change

'We're Christian now," says Brett Blake.

In a bold move, BYUSA president Brett Blake declared that the association will now adopt Christian ideals and try to become known as a Christian organization. "Sure it will cause some resentment with our staff and former officers, but that's exactly the kind of self-righteous attitude we're trying to get rid of. We're here to serve."

Blake listed several causes for the change. Foremost among them was a need for divine justification. As Blake stated, "We've always pretended that God was on our side; maybe now He will be."

This let to questions about whether or not the purpose is self-righteous, something Blake has readily criticized. The next day, a BYUSA spokesman answered these concerns by stating, "We are not self-righteous. It just happens that we give the best Christian service in the world, and we have lots of surveys to prove it. It seems only natural that we would be more inspired than everyone else."

A later press release included other details of the change. BYU officers answered questions about their financial rewards with the statement, "Service without pay is asking a lot. Hey, we just want to be Christian. Don't bug us about things like money and who gets it."

The announcement discussed other topics like the treatment of various or obscure student organizations, and standards. In regards to the obscure, Blake said, "Respecting everyone on campus is a tough task. We still plan to just follow the guideline 'if people don't like our good Christian service, then good luck to them in the terrestrial kingdom.' That usually ends the conflict." Concerning standards, BYUSA applauded their "Christian methods of pseudo-law enforcement," and commented, "We know there are ways to ensure everyone a spot in the Celestial Kingdom, and the Standards program has employed every element of persuasion to keep the students righteous. If we coerce the kids now, they'll thank us later."

"In all," Blake concluded, "we just want people to know we're here for the students. Some students have thought that open elections or open forums are important for expressing their opinions. We want to help them understand, however, that when a group of us are hand-picked to run for president (and we all end up in top level offices anyway), we can much more effectively address the students' concerns. And we're supposed to be hand-picked, because the Bretheren on the Board of Trustees said so. At any rate, our new Christian values and policies insure a heightened level of spirituality and service. When the administration says so, we are here one hundred percent for the students of BYU."

BYUSA Offers New Service

BYUSA announces plans to offer a new Dial-a-Date Hotline service to be implemented Friday, April 13.

BYUSA announced the new service after reviewing goals and objectives for the new year. They hope that the Dateline will bring students closer together like a family. President Brett Blake himself reported that this service will not only help him improve student communication, a major issue in this year's presidential position campaign, but "it will also aid BYU bishops in filling their engaged couples quotas."

This Dateline will be available for all endorsed BYU students as well as UVCC students holding current temple recommends. To use the Dateline, students should call 378-RING. After giving a brief physical description, students will be given a listing of compatible matches. They are then free to call their potential dates and plan their evenings. BYUSA offers discount bowling and two-for-one Varsity theater tickets to all who utilize this service. Theyu also plan to award the 100th caller with a Pictionary game. There is no direct fee, but the administration will be cutting the Honors Program budget to fund the project.

Volunteers are needed to initiate the Dateline. BYUSA is looking for outgoing an fun-loving individuals who are willing to offer their services to fill the Datelin'e rseservoir of dates. Volunteers can rreceive marriage preparation course credits, or count participation in the program toward Church attendance. For mor information about the Dateline, volunteering or credit, students should contact either the BYUSA offices or an academic advisement center.

Break Through in Weight-Loss Program

The Health Sciences Department, working in conjunction with BYU Food Services, has released the results of an extenive weight-loss study. The data reveals that eating three or more meals a day at Food Services facilities, over a period of six to eight weeks, can insure a loss of ten to seventy-three pounds. The study also reveals possible methods for drastic reductions in overall body fat. The findings show that weight loss is primarily due to a chemical reaction that takes place when the body receives a disproportionate combination of carbohydrates, starch, and acid, but can also be attributed to acute dysentery. Maximum weight loss was achieved by participants who chose taco salad for at least two of their required meals.

This dietary breakthrough has academic repercussions as well. Students who purchase a meal ticket for two consecutive semesters may have their Fitness For Life requirement waived.

Plans are also in the works to convert the Smith Fieldhouse into a dining area.

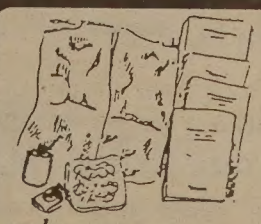
THE BIG ONE IS COMING!

Be ready, be prepared. The date you have anxiously anticipated could happen today!

"The patented 72 Hour Emergency Returned Missionary Dating Kit is your key to unlock the panic of that special, happy moment."

- Grant Von Harrison

This must have survival kit is chock full of hints and supplies needed to impress your date. Since the women woo over mission trivia and memorabilia, you simply cannot afford to let this deal go by!



only

$24.95

Special discount for anyone with an original signed mission call letter

Your Kit Includes:

- 1ea. Monogrammed Real Kangaroo Fur Scripture Carry Case.
- 25 ea. Slides of favorite investigators that nobody else on the planet knows.
- 1ea. Worn White Bible with personal revelations in the table of contents.
- 1ea. Guide to restaurants where your mission language is spoken.
- 1ea. Of those funny Peruvian stocking caps.
- 1ea. Copy of a letter from your mission president extolling the virtues of marriage....NOW.

And much, much more to ensure smooth sailing on the BYU dating sea!

Reflections of an Imperfect Woman

As I WALK across campus each day, I am aware of my lack of fulfillment as a true Latter-Day Saint Young Woman. It was my misfortune never to have received the coveted "Young Womanhood Medallion," and I hang my head in shame. This is my plight.

As a Beehive, the first degree of glory for a young woman, I received a Personal Progress book. In it I was to make two goals a year in each of six categories. I learned to bake a cake as a Homemaking goal and promised to brush my teeth before going to church on Sunday as a Personal and Social Refinement goal. I thought I was on the road to perfection. I was disillusioned. At the end of four years, and after making what seemed like hundreds of goals that were to lead me down the path of eternal bliss, my advisor informed me I had come up short. I had failed to make a Spiritual Awareness goal as a Mia Maid (the second degree of glory). I wasn't going to get my medallion. I was leaving for BYU in two months medallionless.

My mother had already purchased the twenty-inch gold chain on which I would hang my symbol of purity. What would I tell my family and friends? I was distraught for a month. I couldn't eat, I couldn't sleep, I had nightmares about telling a future mate that I didn't have a medallion. But in the end I had no choice: I had to leave for college without it.

I counted twenty shiny medallions around twenty perfect Mormon girls' necks, my first week at BYU, and those were just the girls on my dorm floor. I was doomed. I was attending the Lord's University without the golden symbol of my young womanhood.

Slowly, I began to realize that no amount of self-pity was going to get me my medallion, and besides, I had made some keen observations about that shiny gold pendant. I began to notice that I wasn't the only girl in my ward not wearing one on SUnday. Maybe they had forgotten in the last minute rush to put the finishing touches on their heavenly bangs, or, Heaven forbid, they didn't have one either. Could it be true? Was the celestial University really only telestial?

I had uncovered the secret. Those medallions didn't represent purity; in fact, almost no one wore their medallion on Friday or Saturday night. I knew it: girls wore those medallions just to fool naive returned missionaries into thinking that they could help them obtain celestial glory if they would just marry them. I was overcome with joy. One uncompleted Spiritual Awareness goal had saved me from getting my own returned missionary.

I was kidding when I said that I hang my head in shame. I used to, but now I consider myself one of the lucky few who never received that coveted award.

Come Party at LYPHZA BEACH!

The place to be on Friday 30 March 1990!
It's CRAZY's Birthday, so be ready for the unexpected.
Meet at 1960 N Canyon Rd #9 at 8pm, or come when you can.

What to bring:

- your favorite tunes
- beach attire*
- swimsuit and towel
- munchies
- friends
- dancin feet
- your funlovin self

* Though this is optional, you MUST wear clothes.
 This is NOT optional.

Quote of the Week

The problem with you is you have no imagination.
–Anne Shirley

New Statue Unveiled

A new statue entitled "Adam and Eve: The Early Years" was recently unveiled by renowned Mormon sculptor Mohnri Young. The statue, located next the ELWC, is in the honor of our first parents. Young believes that they sinned 'in the innocence of their childhood.' The inscription states, "After being removed from the Garden of Eden, Adam and Eve immediately developed the idea of laboratory animal experimentation to amuse themselves and to learn more about the animals they had named in the Garden. This scene portrays the moment when Eve, according to Jewish tradition, began the experiment by shouting out, "See what happens when you pull its leg."

GRADUATE STUDENTS

- Wondering how you'll ever make a living?
- Disheartened by declines in investment banking?
- Worried about decreased opportunities in military & espionage careers due to the startling reverse-domino theory trends in Eastern Europe?

Fear no more! The Western military & espionage establishments may be getting their budgets cut, but the KGB is still looking for a few good traitors. Gorby is still hanging on, and has certainly won the hearts of the Western media, but things are rough, and we could use your help.

Send resumé to: KGB RECRUITMENT
BOX 38429
DENVER CO 80238

The Torch
Luncheon Specials $2.99 Dinner Specials $3.99
Cuban Restaurant
95 S. 300 W., Provo 377-8717
"The best BBQ ribs and shakes in Utah!"

Celebrate our Anniversary!
April Specials
Hours: Mon-Thurs 12 noon - 10 p.m., Fri-Sat 12 noon to 12 midnight
Reservations for Groups • We reserve the right to limit

Dinner Specials $4.95

Monday	Carne con Papas	(reg. $5.95)
Tuesday	Cuban Chicken Rice	(reg. $6.95)
Wednesday	Fricasse Chicken	(reg. $5.95)
Thursday	Boliche	(reg. $5.95)
Friday	Tasajo	(reg. $6.95)
Saturday	BBQ Ribs	(reg. $6.95)

expires April 15, 1990
limit one per party

Shakes 99¢ (reg $1.89)

Monday	Curuba
Tuesday	Tamarindo
Wednesday	Pina Colada
Thursday	Guanabana
Friday	Passion Fruit
Saturday	Mango

expires April 15, 1990
limit one per party

Outdoor seating & BBQ
Watermelon & fruit drinks
Friday and Saturday
2 - 7 p.m.

16 piece BBQ Chicken
$6.95 with coupon
(we reserve the right to limit)
expires April 15, 1990

Shish kabob
Buy one get one free with coupon
(we reserve the right to limit)
expires April 15, 1990

SE Calendar

Theatre Guide

Symphony Hall, 123 W. South Temple. SLC, Tickets: 533-6407
Capitol Theatre, 50 W. 200 S., SLC, Tickets: 533-6494 or 533-5555 (for Ballet West)
Salt Lake Repertory Theatre (City Rep), 148 S. Main SLC, Tickets: 532-6000
The Salt Lake Acting Company, 168 W. 500 N., SLC, Tickets: 363-0525
Hale Center Theatre, 2801 South Main, SLC, Tickets: $4.00-$7.00, 484-9257
Pioneer Theatre Company, 1340 E. 300 S. SLC, Tickets: $8.00-$18.00, 581-6961
The Babcock Theatre, 300 S. University, SLC, Tickets: Fri. & Sat. $6.00, other nights $5.00, 581-6961
The Egyptian Theatre, Main Street, Park City, Tickets: 649-9371
Provo Towne Square Theatre, 100 N. 100 W., Provo, Tickets: $3.00, 375-7300
Valley Center Playhouse, 780 N. 200 E., Lindon, Tickets: $4.00 w/I.D., 785-1186

Wednesday, March 28

Lecture:

Dan Peterson speaking on the Arabic celebration of Ramadan, presented by the Children of Abraham Club, 455 MARB, 7:00 p.m., everyone welcome!

Symposium on effects of Tianamen Square on trade and security policies of East Asia and the U.S., 238 Clark Bldg., 11:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m. Info: 378-3303, 374-0147

Theatre:

"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.

Film:

International Cinema, 250 SWKT
Lecture on "Iphigenia," 3:15 p.m.
"Iphigenia," 3:45 & 8:30 p.m.
"La Traviata," 6:15 p.m.

Music:

Opera Sketches, Gates Theatre, 4:00 p.m., Free!
Ray Smith, woodwinds, Ron Brough, percussion, Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Free!

Thursday, March 29

Lecture:

"Eve and Doctrines Concerning the Status of Women," Eugene England, Women's Research Institute Brown Bag Luncheon series, 378 ELWC
Lectures on Earthquakes, by I.M. Idriss, 377 Clyde Bldg., 11:00 a.m. & 2:00 p.m.
"Dinosaur Behavior and Ecology," Jack R. Horner, 110 Bean Museum, 7:00 p.m.

Theatre:

"Man and Superman," Pardoe Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.
"The Foreigner," Payson Community Theatre, 438 W. 100 S., Payson, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $4.00 at door

Film:

International Cinema, 250 SWKT
Lecture on "La Traviata" 3:15 p.m.
"La Traviata," 3:45 & 8:30 p.m.
"Iphigenia," 6:00 p.m.
Cinematic Enlightenment Series:
"Deep Throat," 4:00 & 7:45 p.m.
"El Topo," 5:10 & 9:50 p.m.

Music:

BYU Dixieland Band, Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Free!
BYU Symphony Orchestra, performing Dvorak, Handel, Bernstein, Brahms deJong Concert Hall, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Free!

Friday, March 30

Theatre:

"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Man and Superman," Pardoe Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.
"Jake's Corner," Valley Center Playhouse, 7:30 p.m.
"The Curse of an Aching Heart," Provo Towne Square Theatre, 8:00 p.m.
"A Salute to Irving Berlin," City Rep, 7:30 p.m.
"The Foreigner," Payson Community Theatre, 438 W. 100 S., Payson, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $4.00 at door

Film:

International Cinema, 250 SWKT
"Iphigenia," 3:15 & 8:00 p.m.
"La Traviata," 5:45 p.m.
Film Society, 321 ELWC
"Red River," 7:30 & 10:00 p.m.

Dance:

"An Evening of Shakespeare," Ballet West, Capitol Theatre, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $6.00-$38.00, $4.00 w/I.D., 533-5555

Music:

Ricks College Symphonic Band and BYU Chamber Orchestra, deJong Concert Hall, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Free!

Saturday, March 31

General Conference:

Priesthood Session, Cougar Stadium, 6:00 p.m. Men only.
Quilting Bee and Potluck Barbeque for miffed Relief Society sisters, 6:00 p.m., Helaman Field. BYOQ (bring your own quilt; frames will be provided), Food Assignments: last names A-F: meats or casseroles, G-M: jello or green salads, N-R: french bread and rolls, S-Y: desserts, Z and other: drinks.

Theatre:

"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 8:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Man and Superman," Pardoe Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.
"Jake's Corner," Valley Center Playhouse, 7:30 p.m.
"The Curse of an Aching Heart," Provo Towne Square Theatre, 8:00 p.m.
"The Foreigner," Payson Community Theatre, 438 W. 100 S., Payson, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $4.00 at door

Film:

International Cinema, 250 SWKT
"La Traviata," 3:00 & 7:45 p.m.
"Iphigenia," 5:15 p.m.
Film Society, 321 ELWC
"Red River," 7:30 & 10:00 p.m.

Dance:

"An Evening of Shakespeare," Ballet West, Capitol Theatre, 2:00 & 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $6.00-$38.00, $4.00 w/I.D., 533-5555

Sunday, April 1

General Conference:

10:00 a.m. & 2:00 p.m., Cougar Stadium. Best dress optional. Tortilla shells not optional.

Conference Brunch:

Come air you views about the morning session and expectations for the afternoon while downing waffles and orange juice at Allison's house: 346 North 750 East, Beaver, UT.

Monday, April 2

Weakly Religion Symposium:

"Sexism in the Church: Why We Do It," Post-Conference discussion with the Religion faculty, JSB auditorium. 8:00 p.m.

Theatre:

"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.
"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 2:00 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Jake's Corner," Valley Center Playhouse, 7:30 p.m.
"The Magician's Nephew," City Rep, 2:00 p.m.

Club Activity:

P.R.U.D.E. (Proper righteous Undergrads Defending Ethics) meet at base of Squaw Peak, 10:30 p.m., bring high-powered flashlights, call 377-2980 for rides

Tuesday, April 3

Forum:

Law School Catered Lunch panel discussion, "How We Justify Our Salaries," Law Building, 11:00 a.m.

Lecture:

"Biting Sour Apples in the Gumwood Shade: Women and the Function of Memory," Marilyn Arnold, 6225 HBLL, 2:00 p.m.

Theatre:

"Man and Superman," Pardoe Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.

Music:

"April Fool's Concert Revisited," featuring quirks by P.D.Q. Bach, de Jong Concert Hall, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: $4.00 w/ I.D., 378-7444
Organ Recital, Richard Elliott, Madsen Recital Hall, HFAC, 9:00 p.m., Info: 378-7444

Wednesday, April 4

Theatre:

"Candida," Margetts Theatre, HFAC, 7:30 p.m., Tickets: 378-7447
"Saint Joan," Pioneer Theatre Company, 8:00 p.m.

Film Box

Varsity I:
378-3311, 4:30, 7:00, 9:30 p.m., $1.00
March 23-29 "Rain Man"
March 30-April 2 "Turner & Hooch"
April 3-5 "Steel Magnolias"
Varsity II:
7:00 & 9:30 p.m., $1.00
March 30-April 2 "The Bear"
April 6-9 "Field of Dreams"
Late Night Flicks:
March 30 "The Princess Bride"
April 6 "Vertigo"
Scera Theatre:
745 S. State, Orem, 225-2560
"The Little Mermaid," until April 5, Tickets: $2.00
Cinema in Your Face:
45 W. 300 S., SLC, 364-3647
Movie Hotlines:
Academy Theatre: 373-4470
Mann 4 Central Square theatre: 374-6061
Movies 8: 375-5667
Pioneer Twin Drive-In: 374-0521
Cineplex Odeon University 4 Cinemas: 224-6622
Carillon Square Theatres: 224-5112

Art Box

Frank Magleby, faculty art show, B.F. Larson Gallery, HFAC, daily from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m.
"The World of Anne Frank," exhibit at Salt Lake City & County Building, including Anne's diary and Otto Frank's photogrphs, Mondays through Sundays, March 25-April 22
"Revolution in Print," National Exhibit of original printed materials from the French Revolution, HBLL north east gallery, through Winter 1990

Editor's Choice

"April Fool's Concert Revisited"—come see the music faculty lose control! Reluctant participants will be the BYU Chamber Orchestra, the Deserted String Quartet, members of Opium Winds, and an unwilling horde of other, including an off-color commentaary by Glenn Williams. Tues. April 3, deJong Concert Hall, 7:30 p.m.
BYU Symphony Orchestra, Thrus. March 29, 7:30 p.m., performing Dvorak's "New World" symphony in honor of the freedoms being given Dvorak's home, Czechoslavakia—concert is free

BIG GULP PROFILE:

JOE CANNON

HOME: Provo, Utah.
AGE: 47.
PROFESSION: Capitalist baron, despoiler of the environment, & political aspirant.
HOBBY: Donating to local causes, to buy public support for pollution.
LAST BOOK READ: Leadership Secrets of Attila the Hun. Wes Roberts.
LATEST ACCOMPLISHMENT: Making Utah County no. 2 in air pollution.

WHY I DO WHAT I DO: "I want to get rich , befoul the environment, then get into politics & start a dynasty."
QUOTE: "The public be damned."
PROFILE: Arrogant, egotistical, paranoid, anti-intellectual.
HIS DRINK: Caffeine-free Big Gulp, on the rocks. "While I make big bucks, I need to appear down-to-earth to get support from the little people, so I guzzle politically-correct soft drinks."